Radio Single "Radio Single" is a song by German electronic music band Future Babies. It is the second single from their debut album Radio M.E.D. It was released in May 2006 and was a limited edition CD single. The song was used by the BBC as the wake-up song of their Sport Relief 2006 coverage. Music video A music video was made for this song, but it was never released anywhere, apparently because the song got screwed in the post-production. However, it got the band some success. Almost a year later, in 2007, they released a video for the song "Radio M.E.D.". It shows people dancing in "uncomfortable" places with a projector. The speedup that users experience depends on many factors: The page containing the query. The database server that the page loads from. The physical location of the data. It is also possible that the user will not see any speedup at all. Factors such as load from other databases, the users history, and their experience with queries of similar complexity can all prevent the server from being able to execute the query so quickly. Variance in Performance If you run several tests on one client, you may see slightly different results on different pages. The results of one page may be more stable than those of another. Sometimes the server is not able to achieve the requested performance. Most often this happens when the database server has reached its maximum capacity. In this case the server will return a response to the client as quickly as possible. The database limits the number of concurrent connections the server will accept from the client, and the server cannot exceed that limit. The page
